Floral Hall presents a desirable appearance as the articles on exhibition are "few and far between." The best and best-wooded horse, brought by S. B. Deane, looks good enough to eat. In the line of flowers and plants, H. Behrens, of Middletown, seems to be alone. In the south end may be seen two cases of fine jewelry and silversware as can be seen anywhere. In the second department there is a fine display of farming implements and agricultural machinery. The grounds were spotted with people yesterday, some arriving for the last two days, others examining what had been arranged, and many waiting for the race that came off in the afternoon. Thousands of visitors are expected Thursday and Friday.

Two coaches containing George Greig's collection of natives from points below Sandusky, was switched off here this (Wednesday) morning, while home was bound. It was another of this gentleman's brilliant failures.

The small boy delights in it and saveth his luge, and thus we are deprived of the crisp leaf which falls in this season of the year. The above reverts to the suffocating smoke that greets one on the streets now-days.

The Republican meeting at Avon Hall last evening was large and enthusiastic. Speeches were made by Benjamin Butterworth and Richard Smith, both of whom did themselves great credit in their efforts. Butterworth overhauled the Confederates Congress and showed how completely they had contrived the Federal Government.

Mr. Smith, in rather an amusing conversational way, showed how, through the instrumentality of the shot-gun, the South had become solid. Both speeches were well received, and the Republicans are of the opinion that great good will result therefrom.

The lecture of Rev. Mr. Hollensted at the M. E. Church last evening was a grand success.

The Republican meeting at Odd-fellows Hall last night was a complete failure, only twelve voters being present. $25 was expended for music, but it was no go. Southern Anderson will remember 1876, and will roll up a larger Democratic majority than she has for years.

The Foreman Was Shot.

The Gazette owes an explanation to Hon. Charles J. M. Gwin of an absurd error which mingled our report of his recent speech at Elliott City. In the make-up the concluding portion of his address was accidentally omitted and when joined abruptly to the succeeding paragraph made a sort of sense which was quite apart from his purpose. In speaking of Mr. Gorman he said:

He felt assured, however, that he would be elected and would do as brilliant a service in the future as in the "barbecue," which was a popular branch of the day's gathering.

It will be seen that the paragraph is incomplete, and had it not been accidentally abbreviated in lifting the types would not have suggested brilliant services at the "barbecue" taken for the barbecue. We may say in conclusion that we hope that Mr. Gorman's services at the festival board were brilliant, though there were not the services that win for him the respect and confidence of Maryland.
